Course description
We are what we eat. But before we can eat anything, it has to be grown or raised. And before it is grown or raised, it is communicated. This course will examine US agriculture from the position that what we communicate and how we communicate makes meaning. And it is this meaning that turns into choices and decisions for what we eat and how we support and understand agriculture. Using case studies and hands on research, this course will examine the communicative practices of current issues in agriculture.

Course Learning Goals
1. Identify and discuss social components to perceptions and understanding of agriculture.
2. Identify how society, mass media and individuals frame agriculture.
3. Critically engage with mass media theories and methods to analyze media representations of agriculture.

Class protocol
Class begins promptly at 5:00 pm on Wednesdays. We will start class on time. If you have a conflict or an unavoidable reason to be late, please let me know in advance by phoning, texting or sending an email.

Online class protocol
- Cameras must be on at the beginning of class and during the times you are presenting. They can be off at other times, though it is always nice to see faces rather than black boxes with names!
- You should stay muted during class.
- Please do not take screenshots of the class.
- Chat and video are recorded, so do not use the chat to have private discussions unless you want it to potentially be seen by others. The class videos will only be shared upon request.
- Pets allowed. Food allowed. Clothing required.

If for some reason the connection (either yours to class or mine) is cut off, you are expected to sign back in or wait for the connection. If there is an ongoing issue with the professor's connection, look for an email with instructions. If there is an ongoing issue with your connection, please email the professor at mnucci@sebs.rutgers.edu.
Due dates
I will NOT accept late assignments unless you speak to me in person or by phone no later than 24 hours BEFORE the due date. NO email or text communications will be considered. I am here to help you learn the material in the class, so if you need extra time for a legitimate (e.g., illness, family emergency, religious observation) excused absence or reason I will work with you. However, note that repeated requests will not be allowed.

Academic Honor and Integrity
Plagiarism in any form will not be tolerated. This includes the improper citation of materials from any source, including the Internet. Rutgers University Policy on Academic Integrity considers cheating, fabrication, facilitation of academic dishonesty, plagiarism, and the denial of access to others of materials or information as violations of academic integrity. All violations will be dealt with according to the rules laid out in the policy which can be found at http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/, ranging from loss of class credit to expulsion depending on the level of the violation.

The university’s policy on Academic Integrity is available at http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/academic-integrity-policy. The principles of academic integrity require that a student:
• properly acknowledge and cite all use of the ideas, results, or words of others.
• properly acknowledge all contributors to a given piece of work.
• make sure that all work submitted as his or her own in a course or other academic activity is produced without the aid of impermissible materials or impermissible collaboration.
• obtain all data or results by ethical means and report them accurately without suppressing any results inconsistent with his or her interpretation or conclusions.
• treat all other students in an ethical manner, respecting their integrity and right to pursue their educational goals without interference. This requires that a student neither facilitate academic dishonesty by others nor obstruct their academic progress.
• uphold the canons of the ethical or professional code of the profession for which he or she is preparing.

Adherence to these principles is necessary in order to ensure that
• everyone is given proper credit for his or her ideas, words, results, and other scholarly accomplishments.
• all student work is fairly evaluated and no student has an inappropriate advantage over others.
• the academic and ethical development of all students is fostered.
• the reputation of the University for integrity in its teaching, research, and scholarship is maintained and enhanced.
Failure to uphold these principles of academic integrity threatens both the reputation of the University and the value of the degrees awarded to its students. Every member of the University community therefore bears a responsibility for ensuring that the highest standards of academic integrity are upheld.

Attendance

Rutgers students are expected to attend all scheduled course meetings. University policy excuses absences due to religious observance or participation in Rutgers-approved activities, and permits students to make up work missed for these circumstances. If you will be absent from a class, lab, or exam for any reason, you need to report your absence through the Absence Reporting Website https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra/. The system will generate an email to me about your absence but the University recommends that you also contact me directly to let me know of your absence. I will take attendance at every class:

- If you enter the class after I take attendance; please make sure at the end of the class I mark you as present. Note that if you miss class, you will not receive the participation points for that class.
- More than 2 unexcused absences other than per Rutgers guidelines (an excused absence is illness with a doctor’s note, family emergency, religious observation or Rutgers-sanctioned event with note) WILL result in a letter grade drop for your final grade.
- Only students with excused absences will be offered the opportunity to meet with me to review the class content.
